

Decoding HR for Industry 5.0

The industry has undergone three revolutions and is said to be in the fourth. While it took us over 100 years to transcend the first three, it took only forty years to reach the fourth. Now the industry is all set to step into Industry 5.0. The next generation is expected to bring with it further advancements in technology and a brand-new focus on sustainability. Based on this vision of Industry 5.0, the HR team at School of Business and Management invite speakers, researchers, thought leaders and students to join us for a discussion on how human resource practitioners should gear up to navigate through this transition.
